DC Wants Out of Outfall Pact

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Daly City wants to back out of its three-year-old agreement to join with San Francisco in construction of an ocean outfall line that would carry treated sewage five miles out to sea, The Post has learned.

If approved at state and federal levels, the move could save the North San Mateo County Sanitation District about $900,000, District Manager David Gehre said.

The reasons for wanting out of the agreement are, money and possible lawsuits.

The district simply does not think it would be getting its money's worth out of tieing into the outfall line with San Francisco, especially since that city has decided to move the outfall line several thousand yards north from Thornton Beach, adding to Daly City's cost to tie into the line.

And San Francisco's antiquated sewage system would be pouring, at best, secondary treated sewage at the rate of some 200 million gallons per day, out to sea.

At worst — during rainstorms — San Francisco would simply be removing the "floatables" and letting its sewage mix with storm runoff in the outfall line.

There are plans, it was explained, that would provide for two San Francisco outfall lines, one longer than the other.

On rainy days a diversion gate would be opened and the rainwater and slightly treated sewage would be carried perhaps eight miles out to sea, Gehre explained.

But the SMCSD Board of Directors recently decided San Francisco had litle to offer them.

First, the cost of expanding the Daly City line another 10,000 feet down the beach would add to the already heavy financial burden being experienced by the district (which must pay the entire bill for construction of the line).

Second, Daly City's new treatment plant provides for a far higher degree of treatment — up to the point where wastewater can be reclaimed and used for agricultural purposes.

The new plant will treat some six million gallons of sewage daily, Gehre said.

The amount and type of treatment of San Francisco sewage would negate Daly City's plans for a higher degree of treatment, Gehre said.

Also, Daly City already has an outfall line at Thornton Beach "that is in perfectly good condition," Gehre said.

In order for Daly City to qualify for federal and state funds for the new reclamation plant, directors had to enter into the agreement with San Francisco, it was explained.

Inasmuch as San Francisco saw fit to change its initial plans regarding location of the outfall line, and the degree of treatment to be offered by San Francisco, the district directors argue they should be allowed to scrap the agreement and go it alone on the outfall line.

Meetings are now being set up between the district, San Francisco, and state and federal representatives, Gehre said.

Directors also ponder what legal recourse might be taken either against them or by them if the district were tied into the San Francisco outfall line and sewage omitted by the line polluted local beaches.

Garbage Strike Now Longest In DC History

The current garbage strike in Daly City is now the longest in the city's history.

It received that dubious distinction on Wednesday, Aug. 18, when it surpassed the city's 17-day strike of three years ago.

Assistant City Manager Ray Letsinger Monday said a combined city-county inspection team combed the city last week looking for health hazards in connection with the strike and, except for a scattering of apartments where garbage had accumulated, failed to find any hazards.

Letsinger praised the cooperation of city residents for averting any health hazard during the strike by taking their garbage to the dump.

The Mussel Rock dump has been open free to bonafide residents of Broadmoor, Colma and Daly City for some three weeks.

In addition, the city is also giving out free heavy-duty plastic garbage bags. The bags are available at the city hall and local fire stations, Letsinger said.

"We've lost count of how many plastic bags have been given to residents," a city hall spokesman said, "but we intend to continue the practice for the duration of the strike."

Health Hazard Legal Actions

The Daly City Council has authorized its city attorney and staff to take whatever legal action is necessary to eliminate health hazards in the city resulting from the failure of landlords to dispose of garbage.

The stern measure is necessary, according to Assistant City Manager Ray Letsinger, to prevent health and safety hazards in the city during the current garbage strike.

Some citizens are refusing to cooperate by carting their garbage to the Mussel Rock dump, Letsinger said.

Most violations of the health and safety ordinances are at apartment complexes, Letsinger said.

But the Public Seldom Knows

Some Folks Find Time To Thank the Police

For the Peninsula's police agencies, the average day can include everything from murder investigations to traffic citations, from family beefs to high speed chases.

But there is more to the policeman's job than fighting crime. He is also there when a citizen needs a helping hand.

Many who have been helped have shown their appreciation in letters to the police department as seen in a sampling of letters to the Daly City department during a one-week period in mid-July of this year.

One letter was from a San Bruno mother who "lost" her small son for about 15 minutes.

"Although he was lost for only (a few) minutes, these few minutes were long and filled with apprehension for me," the woman wrote.

"Sgt. Steven Aurilio gave me his support in finding my son," she said.

Another citizen wrote thanking Officer James Richardson for his "kindness and understanding" when the writer's wife died recently.

The letter praised Richardson for his efforts in trying to revive his wife after she had collapsed at home. But she was pronounced dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital.

"My reaction since my wife and I were very close was a complete emotional breakdown," the man said.

It was then that Richardson called his wife and told her to come to the hospital in an effort to comfort the bereaved man.

The Richardsons went even further — they took the man to their home and "treated me like a member of their family."

During the week the man spent with the Richardsons at their modest Daly City home,the officer and his wife assisted him in making funeral arrangements and in consoling him, the letter explained.

There are also the letters of compliment from official agencies — the County of San Mateo, State of California, Sausalito Police Department and the Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST).

Dept. District Attorney Tom Blake complimented Sgt. Ken Cole for his investigative skills involving a felony case which was successfully prosecuted because of Cole's hard work.

Percy Pinkney, Special Assistant to Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., wrote on behalf of Officer Robert Dean who found a pocket handbook and traced it to its source — Pinkney.

The handbook was vitally important, according to Pinkney. And through Dean's personal efforts the document was returned to its owner quickly.

Sausalito's Police Chief James Wright thanked the Daly City Police Department, and especially Det. Jim Mendiara and Tom Martin, for their assistance in helping solve a homicide in that Marin County city earlier this year.

Officer Bob Sola was singled out for praise by POST for his efforts during a survey conducted in Daly City by that police organization during the week of July 5-11.

Cutbacks Squeeze Pacifica

Drastic reductions in Pacifica's engineering and planning staffs may force the City Council to disband at least one of its citizen advisory commissions.

The council Monday night pondered the fate of the Transportation and Safety Commission for which there have been no city staff members to provide assistance since July 1.

The same problem may arise with the city's Animal Advisory Commission, also without staff assistance for two months.

The council, however, set aside a notion by Nick Gust to dismantle the Transportation and Safety Commission immediately.

Instead, council members asked that the city manager consider all possible solutions to the problem and report back to the council.

Transportation and Safety Commission Chairman John Plato told the council that the members have accepted a number of routine responsibilities in recent weeks just so the commission can continue to exist — let alone function effectively.

"In essence, the commission, because of severe budget constraints, has in

Stalled Over Pension Plan

Fireman Negotiation Meeting

By JANET PARKER

Negotiations between South San Francisco's firefighters and the City Council — stalled over a pension plan since June 16 — may gain some ground Wednesday.

City Atty. John Noonan and the attorneys for the International Association of Firefighters (IAFF), Local 1507 are scheduled to meet and work out details of that pension plan.

Noonan said he is hopeful the two parties can reach agreement on the specific wording of the plan at that meeting.

However, Vice-Mayor Emanuele Damonte said the City Council has not yet been presented with a legal document outlining that plan to resolve some of the council's concerns.

"There's nothing really definite," Damonte said. "We don't know how long it will be."

In the meantime, the firefighters are not getting the salary increase to which the council has informally agreed.

The councilmen on June 16 were in the middle of voting to adopt the entire salary and fringe benefit package for the firefighters when an interruption by two former councilmen stopped them midstream.

Frank Mammini and Warren Steinkamp said the retirement plan could end up in a legal battle and a loss for the city would ultimately cost $500,000 a year in city funds.

The plan — called the "2 per cent at 50" — allows employes to retire when they are 50-years-old receiving 2 per cent of their final salary multiplied by the number of years of employment.

The plan was originated by the California Highway Patrol.

However, the difference is that the South San Francisco City Council — at the request of Local 1507 — is considering funding the pension from a portion of each firefighter's salary.

All firefighters — present and future — must agree to that deduction in writing.

Apparently, no other public agency in the state operates the plan that way.

The critics say the IAFF in the future may make a turn-about and ask the city to pay the costs of the plan as the state does for the CHP.

Once the city begins to provide the plan it must, by law, continue.

If courts rule in the firefighters favor, the city could be faced with an expensive burden, the two former councilmen say.

Noonan met in executive session with the council last week but no formal action was taken.

The attorney said he is not yet certain if there is anyway he can write a legal document saying the IAFF may never return to the council to re-negotiate the plan asking the city to pay.

He said only that he may have a legally worded document to present to the IAFF leadership — in hopes both the council and IAFF will eventually approve.

The City Council and the IAFF have agreed not to discuss negotiations.

However, IAFF Local 1507 President Al Jones said the firefighters are waiting for the city attorney to present them with the document.

He would not say if the Local 1507 would be willing to sign a document that would forbid union leaders from asking the council to pay the costs of a plan in the future.

"We'll look at it and see if we like it. If we do, we'll sign. If we don't, we won't sign," Jones said.

"It's in limbo right now," he said.

The council and IAFF already have reached infor-

Where Helping 'Hurts'

By DUANE SANDUL

Giving a helping hand isn't always voluntary these days.

Paradoxically, it's punishment for hundreds of persons in San Mateo County each year.

Instead of going to jail or paying a fine, a growing number of criminal offenders are being sentenced to uncompensated public service work.

For example, Colma City Councilman Raymond Ottoboni in the near future must perform 50 hours of public service work as his sentence for interferring with the election process.

John Barbour, indicated along with three other executives in the junior college bribery case involving Matteo Fasenaro, has performed 259 of 300 hours since Oct. 22, 1974.

Instead of serving jail, Barbour has been working at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Palo Alto, the Santa Clara County Service League and the Palo Alto Volunteers Service.

Judges in San Mateo began using uncompensated public service as an alternative to jail and-or fines nearly five years ago.

The unwritten theory and practice seems to reflect a judicial conviction that an offender owes some debt to society, but is not necessarily a candidate for jail.

HIGH WATER HAZARD

These Pacifica policemen were photographed by Mike Markovich of Daly City (in color unfortunately, thus the black and white quality was diminished) as they took to higher seats when their patrol unit failed to get through water which had backed up behind the Daly City Civic Center during a rainstorm last week where neighboring law enforcement agencies use jail facilities. A portion of Sullivan Avenue, where the policemen attempted to exit is torn up during a sanitation improvement project.

DC Adopts Tax Rate

The City of Daly City council Monday formally adopted a 10-cent property tax rate increase to meet its record high $16.3 million capital and operating budget.

This brings the tax rate in the county's second largest city to $1.99 per $100 of assessed valuation.

At the beginning of budget talks some months ago, City Manager David Rowe informed the City Council he was faced with a whopping $600,000 plus deficit.

Such a deficit would require almost a 29 cent tax rate hike, he said.

The council instructed Rowe to start chopping the budget and not come up with anything over a 10-cent tax rate hike.

Reason for this deficit, Rowe explained, was the lower-than-expected county assessment figure for the city — 5.2 per cent, rather than a higher anticipated figure of some 17 per cent.

Councilman William Schumacher, voicing the concern of the rest of the council, said higher costs of government dictated the need for the increase "much to my dislike."

Her Neighbors' Keeper

Aid for Destitute Couple

By RICK SULLIVAN

Harry and Garnet Buizer remember all too well those cold winter months late last year when they lived with their French Poodle, Judy, out of a battered 1963 Cadillac.

They remember the early morning visits to gasoline station rest rooms, the lonely nights sleeping at municipal parking lots and the weeks they were deprived of a hot meal.

Those were dark times for the aging couple.

But today the tables are turned for the Buizers, thanks to Anne Robinson of San Bruno.

Although the couple still lives frugally on a disability subvention and money Harry receives working odd jobs, they have moved into a two-bedroom duplex in South San Francisco and now eat at least one hot meal every day.

"We're getting along just fine now," said Mrs. Buizer. "I don't know what we would have done if it weren't for Mrs. Robinson."

It was almost a year ago that the Buizers were evicted from their South San Francisco apartment after living there seven years. Harry, 52, had been laid off from his job as a tree surgeon with a Burlingame firm and could not find work.

Poverty forced the couple to store their furniture and personal belongings and they took to the streets to survive.

They lived for almost four months out of a rusty, "paid for" Coupe DeVille, subsisting on dry stuffs including mostly breads and cheese.

NEW LIVING QUARTERS

Garnet and Harry Buizer chat with Mrs. Anne Robinson (right) in the living room of the South San Francisco apartment which Mrs. Robinson made available to the couple. The destitute couple had been living in their car in a San Bruno parking lot when Mrs. Robinson very generously came to their rescue.

The only money they received was $260 a month in disability pay. Mrs. Buizer is crippled. Some 35 years ago she was injured in an automobile wreck that crushed both her legs from the knees down.

After an article appeared in this newspaper last October describing the Buizers' plight, a San Bruno woman opened a bank account for the couple. In two weeks sympathetic residents from throughout the Bay Area contributed more than $1,000 to the account.

The Buizers used some of the money to buy new tires for their car and for food and clothing. They saved the rest of the money to make back payments for storage of their possessions.

But when they visited the storage company they were told that all their furniture and personal belongings had been auctioned because the bills had not been paid and the company had been unable to locate them.

The couple and their dog continued to live out of the car until December, when Mrs. Robinson appeared.

One morning she found the Buizers sitting in the front seat of their Cadillac at a San Bruno parking lot, told them she had a place for them to live and moved them into a Francisco Terrace duplex. She provided them with some furniture and food.

"My daughter was moving out of one of my units, so I just happened to have some room available for the Buizers," said Mrs. Robinson.

"I just thank God I had something for them; there are not a lot of people willing to help," she added.

Harry still has not found a steady job, so Mrs. Robinson puts him to work painting and repairing apartment units and homes.

The money he earns helps pay for the rent and utility bills of his duplex.

In his spare time he makes minor repairs on his own duplex. Harry has planted a lawn and flowers.

Recently, he said, he waxed his Cadillac.

Mrs. Buizer, confined to a wheelchair, does what routine house chores she can manage and cooks the meals.

Thursday she sat smiling in the front room of her new home and talked of the generosity of Mrs. Robinson. She said the woman baked her and her husband a cake for their birthdays last May.

Pacifica Reprieve on Ban of Construction

By JANET PARKER

Pacifica won a one-month reprieve Tuesday from a possible Water Quality Control Board cease and desist order banning new construction.

But at least one board member said she's not yet convinced that such a ban is unwarranted.

She said she was ready to slap the city with a ban immediately despite strong objections from Pacifica's staff.

"I personally do not think any more evidence could be given that would make me change my vote I'm prepared to give today," said board member Jessie Smallwood.

Pacifica's sewage treatment plant problem took nearly five hours of the WQCB's time at its session in Oakland Tuesday.

One board member called the length of the session "most unusual."

In fact, the WQCB continued the hearing to Sept. 21 when it learned late in the afternoon the city still has two hours of testimony to give to the board.

Water quality officials charged the city in July with a long list of violations at its 2-year-old plant located in the Sharp Park neighborhood.

Heading the list and causing the most fury in the city itself is the stench the plant is omitting — pushed inland over houses by westerly ocean breezes.

City officials believe that heavy metals — dumped illegally into city manholes — caused the breakdown of one of the treatment plant digesters and the "upset" equipment is causing the strong smell.

Even the city staff agrees the odor problem does exist but argues that odor control measures are being taken.

WQCB Executive Officer Fred Dierker said there is adequate reason to impose the ban on new connections to the plant.

Some of the city's most outspoken critics of the odor attended the meeting and asked the board to push the city into completely resolving the odor problem.

"We are not settling for anything less than a total elimination of odor," said Kay Grottom, a Sharp Park resident.

But at the same time, several individuals who have permits to build houses in the city strongly objected to a ban on additional sewer hook-ups. The ban, they said would curtail their livelihood.

"I'm on a pinnacle," said builder Gil Anda. "You're going to send me over the side."

The builders in the audience reacted with displeasure when the board delayed its decision a month.

In the meantime the city is advising builders not to begin construction even if they already have a building permit.

The WQCB decision could halt in-progress construction.

The board refused to give Pacifica an inkling of what its decision might be.

"We can't give you a partial evaluation on partial evidence," said Board member Mrs. W. M. Eastman. "It's unfortunate the people who are caught in this."

C. Norman Peterson, however, said he believes the city is trying to control odor.

"From testimony I've heard today, I've conceived these improvements are coming shortly," Peterson said.

City Manager Don Weidner — and other city officials — argued that to ban construction in Pacifica for any length of time would be economically devastating.

He said 11 permits to build new residences and six permits for commercial construction have been granted since the WQCB charges were issued. At least 23 more permits for new residences and four for commercial buildings are pending.

"If this unwarranted sewer connection ban is imposed on Pacifica, it is very likely our financial problems will be worsened as potential commercial development is prevented from connecting to our sewer system," Weidner said.

"Pacifica is now responding quickly and adequately to our sewage treatment concerns," Weidner told the board.

He said the city is implementing an odor source control ordinance, redesigning secondary treatment to include $300,000 to $600,000 worth of additional odor control equipment, and installing $15,000 worth of temporary odor control equipment to ease the problem until permanent construction is completed.

Also, he said, the plant staff is planning to empty a malfunctioning digester and clean it manually.

Weidner also chided the WQCB staff, saying it has failed to give sensitive and helpful advice.

He also claimed that the list of WQBC charges would never have been issued if the city hadn't gone to the WQBC staff earlier this year seeking additional justification for odor control equipment in an effort to convince the City Council the $15,000 should be spent.

"Instead of any reasonable response designed to assist us in understanding this request, we received, without warning, this threatened ban on sewer connections," he said.

Mrs. Eastman objected saying the WQCB staff is responsible and conscientious.

"The tone of your letter I find very accusing of staff," Mrs. Eastman said.

"The tone of your staff seemed very accusing to us," Weidner responded.

Resident Kay Grottom presented the board with a petition signed by nearly 300 Pacificans protesting the odor problems.

The odor, she and others said, is affecting the health of Sharp Park residents for more than two years.

Resident John Curtis said one elderly woman was forced to sleep with a damp washcloth on her face to block out the smell.

Suburban Crime

Police Chief Blames Courts

Much of the blame for the increase in suburban and rural crime was placed squarely at the doorsteps of the State Supreme Court last Tuesday by San Carlos Police C ief Owen McGuiran in what he himself described as "a scathing attack."

Pointing out that crime in his city has increased 36 per cent over last year during the first six months of 1976, McGuigan, in effect, accused the state's highest court of shackling law enforcement officers.

He cited the case of the People vs. Guerrero, in which the Supreme Court overturned a superior court decision on the grounds of judical error, in that the lower court allowed admission of previous crimes committed by the defendant when "the probative value of this evidence was substantively outweighed by its prejudicial impact" on the defendant.

He said that in another case, the state appellate court overturned a jury verdict on the grounds that the judge erred in allowing photographs of a dead victim to be admitted as evidence. Grounds for the appellate court decision were that the pictures were "too gruesome" and swayed the jury unfairly.

"For years they have been saying, 'You have to take pictures of the crime scene so the jury can visualize it,'" McGuigan said. "Now the court ruled errors were made in admitting evidence of other crimes and two photographs constituted sufficient grounds to require a reversal.

"It is reasonable to assume that a verdict more favorable to the defendant would have been reached had these errors not been made," McGuigan quoted the decision. "This is pretty hard to swallow," he remarked.

"And these are only a few. There was a recent Supreme Court decision that you cannot make an arrest in a home unless there is an emergency; you must have a warrant first. That can create a serious problem for the law enforcement officer.

"After all," he continued, "we want to prove that a criminal has a propensity for violence; that he uses the same type of weapon and that attacks have been carried out the same way.

"We went through the riots and insurrections of the '60s. Now we find ourselves with the terrorism of the '70s — the kidnapings, the bombings the sabotage, the mass murders. There is also a dramatic and frightening increase in crimes against citizens."

This year San Carlos had itsfirst murder in a decade, McGuigan noted. And within the past few years, two of its citizens were killed just outside the city —one in Redwood City and one in Belmont.

"Why?" he asked. He answered his own question by saying that core cities were given large federal grants to combat crime, forcing criminals to "greener pastures — suburbia.

"The criminal saw less opportunity to commit crime in the cities, so he got into his car, drove onto a nice big freeway and came to rip you off. Then he gets back on the freeway and drives back."

McGuigan blamed the increase in burglaries — from 273 in 1974 to 343 in 1975 — mainly on the need for addicts to finance their drug habits.

"The emphasis has been placed on individual rights as opposed to majority rights or the rights of society," he charged. "There is too much permissiveness, too much liberalism. There is also public apathy because people don't want to get involved.

"There is an emphasis on rehabilitation vs. incarceration for the penalty of persons and the protection of society. Dangerous criminals are being released by parole boards, and young women are getting raped.

"Take marijuana alone. We have said it is dangerous. A lot of social scientists said, 'No.' Now a report comes out that says it is. As a police officer many times I have seen kids carry out hysterical acts under its influence when normally they would be fine young citizens."

The chief also blamed "socialist influence," quoting the "Communist Manifesto" with saying many years ago, "First we'll embarrass your police, and then we'll take away the guns from your citizens."

Urging citizen support and participation, McGuigan said, "We cannot do it alone. It has to be a team effort."

He urged citizens to join Citizens Crime Prevention committees and Neighborhood Alert programs.

SS Warning Issued

Not all books providing social security information at bookstores are accurate, Margaret Tang, social security district manager at the San Mateo Social Security Office, has said.

She pointed out that the Social Security Administration, while it doesn't discourage commercial publication, does not endorse any non-government publication.

Some commercial books are useful, she said.

On the other hand, advertising of "secret" or "inside" information is often false, she said.

Ms. Tang told of a dramatic advertisement that told how readers could "collect $300 a month from social security at age 30 while you are working full time."

Actually, she said, any social security office would tell one without charge that if a young father and mother are both working under social security and one dies, their children may get monthly social security payments.

People can call, write or visit any social security office for information about retirement, disability, survivors, Medicare and supplemental security income programs, she said.

Property Transfer Tax Asked in SSF

A South San Francisco councilman is proposing that the city implement a property transfer tax — above and beyond a similar tax levied by the county — to raise additional revenue.

Councilman William Borba, at the close of months of budget discussions, suggested that South San Francisco collect $2 on every $1,000 of a property sale in the city.

In other words, a South San Franciscan who sells his home for $60,000 would owe the city $120 in property transfer taxes.

Other councilmen are saying that such a tax should be carefully analyzed before it is implemented.

"It would affect every homeowner in the city of South San Francisco," Councilman Terry Mirri said.

Borba's suggestion came after the council adopted its 1976-77 budget — a document it has been pondering over since March.

The council had struggled with methods to balance that budget and ended up taking $250,000 from its reserves to avoid a deficit.

As a result, a property tax increase this year was not required.

However, Borba said the city might have to struggle a lot less in its future budget deliberations if it had such transfer tax to boost its revenue.

Borba justified his taxation proposal saying that the city already burdens businesses with various taxes and fees including business licenses and inventory taxes.

However, other councilmen pointed out that business and industry would be equally affected when there is a property sale.

"It wouldn't be a burden to homeowners," Borba said. "They sell property for substantial profits. They could afford to be levied a tax."

Borba has asked the city manager to prepare a staff report outlining the feasibility of a transfer tax.

County Recorder Marvin Church said the county already levies a transfer tax of its own.

Since 1968, San Mateo County — under provisions of state law — has been collecting $1.10 per $1,000 and 55 cents per $500 or less every time property is sold in the county.

Of the money collected, Church said, half is returned to the city in which the property sale occurred.

In the cases of unincorporated property, the entire tax goes to the county's funds.

Cities, Church said, receive a transfer tax check from the county every month.

Likewise, the council has not relied upon or accepted the decisions of the commission in recent months, Plato said.

He cited several times in which the council either didn't call upon the Traffic and Safety Commission for input or simply didn't accept the commission's recommendation.

He pointed to the commission's reports on skateboard hazards and abuses, municipal bus transportation, city street lighting reductions and the elimination of school crossing guards, as examples.

"In other words, we believe that the council will be reluctant to act on commission recommendations that have not had the benefit of formal staff input," Plato said.

Les Clark, community services director, said the staff assistance problem for city commissions was brought to the attention of the City Council at budget hearings.

Clark said that staff members — if allowed to assist the two commissions — would not only prepare formal reports but would be required to take off compensatory time after attending commission meetings.

As a result, the staff members aren't available during regular working hours to handle other city matters, Clark said.

The council, Clark said, could pay staff members overtime to work with the commission, combine the commission with others or discontinue the commission entirely. He did not make a specific recommendation.

Plato said the commission members — who are not paid for their service — have been required to prepare agendas, record minutes, make public notices of meeting dates, answer correspondence from citizens and prepare sub-committee reports for use by the full commission.

Helping

An average of 180 adults per month have been ordered to perform the work this year.

Juveniles also are sentenced to public service.

The running number of adults actively working presently is 488, down nearly 100 from the average.

The program is administered by Vern Johnson of the County Probation Department's volunteer section. Of course, the offenders are hardly volunteers.

Johnson's boss, Earl Smith, said in an interview that attitudes of those ordered to perform the work varies.

And so it is. Doing chores which traditionally have been regarded as giving a helping hand are punishment for hundreds of persons each year.

But it sure beats jail.

SSF Reserves Go Into Budget

The South San Francisco City Council dipped into its reserves this week to prevent a property tax increase in its 1976-77 budget.

However, one councilman was reluctant to do so and another flatly voted against the budget Wednesday.

Both said it was wrong to use reserve funds merely to balance the budget.

Such funds, they said, should be used for special needs as they arise rather than to simply boost the general fund.

Voting against the budget was Councilman Richard Battaglia.

Councilman Terry Mirri objected to the use of reserve funds but approved the budget anyway Monday night.

"I would hope this council at some future formal meeting would set a policy that we maintain a certain reserve amount," Mirri said.

"We are going to get very easily into deficit spending in the next year or two," Mirri said.

Battaglia gave no public explanation for his vote against the budget. However, he later said it was wrong to depend on reserves — particularly the sale of property — to prevent a deficit budget.

Battaglia had hoped that the council would have found more ways to cut from the proposed budget.

He mentioned in particular a minimum manning requirement in the Fire Department that costs $100,000 a year to maintain as well as the city's commitment to repair sidewalks, curbs and gutters for residents free of charge.

The council had already decided informally Aug. 17 to hold the line on property tax rate of $1 per $100 assessed valuation in 1976-77.

The council had been contemplating an increase of nearly 2 cents.

At the beginning of the budget presentations in March, the city's $9.8 million budget had a deficit of more than $1.5 million.

After four months of hearings and debate, the city staff helped the council to come up with a $22,640 surplus.

The city staff went back to the drawing board twice and came up with the latest proposed budget.

Mirri's objections were mostly due to the council's decision to take $225,000 from its reserve to help balance the budget.

The reserves will include the sale of two pieces of property totalling more than $175,000 as well as a $50,000 transfer from an equipment repair fund.

Whether those two pieces of city-owned property can be sold is not yet certain.

Mirri protested that next year, the council won't have those properties to sell.

The only way to balance the budget next year, he said, is to dig deeper into the general fund slashing programs and jobs.

Director of Finance Bill Anderson said the city's reserves — usually saved for emergency expenses — have dropped to $1.3 million.

He said he prefers a reserve of at least $1.5 million.

Garbage

Letsinger estimates that more than 30,000 plastic bags have been distributed.

Meanwhile, an average 900 vehicles a day are disposing of refuse at Mussel Rock, a scavenger company official said.

Last weekend this figure jumped to almost 3,000 cars for the two-day period, it was learned.

Both sides in the labor dispute are still far apart in negotiations.

Another meeting between representatives of the scavenger company and Local 350, Sanitary Truck Drivers and Helpers Union is scheduled to be held Thursday before Federal Mediator Tom Curdie in San Francisco, Letsinger said.

Firemen

mal agreement on a 6.1 per cent salary increase.

But the salary hike is part of the package and the firefighters won't get that until total agreement on all items — including the pension plan — is reached.

Jones said the firefighters are counting on a retroactive clause, making that salary increase payable back to June 23, to still be in effect.

He noted, however, that the retroactive clause was reached when Ed Alario was city manager and serving as the council's negotiator.

"Of course, the city manager is no longer with us so we'll just wait and see," Jones said.

Damonte said the city attorney has not presented the council with specific legal language for a pension plan that would eliminate the loopholes.

He said the entire council is now concerned about the possible costs of the plan. Councilman Dick Battaglia was the only councilman to publicly state his objections in June.

Councilman William Borba had voted to approve the entire package and Battaglia had voted against approval before the council was halted on June 16.

Unless the council schedules a special meeting, it will not discuss the plan again until Sept. 1.

Big Grand National Dollars for Grabs

A record of more than $135,000 in livestock premium and prize money for the 1976 Grand National Livestock Exposition, Horse Show, and Rodeo, scheduled Oct. 22-31, at the Daly City Cow Palace, was announced recently by Jack Cooke, president of the Cow Palace Board of Directors.

The total — $137,853 — includes almost $90,000 for beef cattle, $21,000 for dairy cattle, $16,965 for sheep, and $10,025 for swine. The Grand National will feature three national shows and one regional show during the 10-day run at the famed Cow Palace.

"The three national shows," said Cooke, "are the $12,500 Register of Merit Hereford Show, the $10,000 Role of Excellence for Charolais, and the $10,000 Standard of Perfection Show for Polled Herefords. The regional show is the $2,000 Western Regional Dorset Show."

The R.O.M. and S.O.P. shows are being held for the second consecutive year at the Grand National.

Both shows will be judged by Gary L. Minish of Blacksburg, Va. The S.O.P. show honors John Lewellen, cattleman, of Linden, Calif. The Charolais R.O.E. show will be judged by Larry J. Emley of Powell, Ohio.

"Primary goal of the Grand National," said Cooke, "is to afford those in the livestock industry the opportunity to measure their stock against the finest livestock in the nation, evaluate their own breeding and other programs, exchange ideas, and buy and sell outstanding breeding stock in the continuing effort to provide the Consumer with meat and dairy products at as low a price as is possible with today's inflation, and yet provide the producer with a fair profit.

"We look for the 1976 Grand National to surpass all others in our 31-year history of producing this national and internationally-known event," Cooke said. 1975 entries were a record-breaking 3232 from 18 states.

For further information and entry application, write Livestock Supt., Cow Palace, Box 34206, San Francisco, Calif. 94134. Entries close Sept. 16.

Child Injuries

A recent study found that unrestrained children in the front right seat have the highest automobile-related injury rate. Children, according to the study, are least likely to be injured in car crashes if they are restrained and in the back seat, and are most likely to be injured if unrestrained and in the front seat.

A Carter Boosts McRobert Stewart

Charles Carter, the Coastside candidate who gathered some 22,000 votes in the June primary supervisorial elections, has announced his support of McRobert L. Stewart for election to the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

Carter said he decided to support Stewart's bid for election to the vacant seat "after carefully weighing Mr. Stewart's stand on major issues concerning San Mateo County."

"I found that Mr. Stewart and I are in complete agreement on the major issues," Carter said.

"His involvement in all levels of government, and his contributions to civic and service organizations over the years, has convinced me that Mr. Stewart is the best qualified candidate for the office of County Supervisor from the Fifth District."

As an example, a concern of both Stewart and Carter is the current acute water situation in the county, and especially on the Coastside, Carter pointed out.

"Throughout his campaign, Mr. Stewart has outlined positive plans for better utilization of our water, including the use of reclaimed water for uses in parks, golf courses, and agricultural areas," Carter said.

"This would preserve our limited water supply for human consumption," Carter explained.

Stewart's determination to attract a wider commercial base to San Mateo County would help alleviate the now-critical unemployment situation in the county and would, in effect, lighten the tax burden now being shouldered by private home-owners, many who are on fixed incomes and cannot afford to pay more taxes, Carter said.

Carter also noted that Stewart's hardline stand on fiscal responsibility in county government is in complete agreement with his own thinking on "belt-tightening in county offices."

Teachers Present Proposals

The American Federation of Teachers, Local 1481, the exclusive representative of teachers in the Jefferson Union High School District, presented their initial contract proposals to the Board of Trustees at their regular meeting, Aug. 17.

Pursuant to law, a public hearing must be held within a reasonable time after the submission of the proposal, to enable the public to become informed and have the opportunity to express itself regarding the proposal.

Such a meeting has been scheduled by the Board of Trustees Aug. 31 at 8 p.m. in the Council Chamber of the City Hall, 90th and Sullivan Streets, Daly City.

PLAYDAY

TV Watching

Census data indicates that 96 per cent of American homes have at least one television set. The average elementary school child spends about 21 hours a week sitting in front of the television set.

Local Mothers of Twins Get Together in Tucson

Over 400 mothers of twins from 29 states attended the 16th Annual Convention of the National Organization of Mothers of Twins, Inc. in Tucson, Ariz. on July 28-31.

The national organization includes 218 clubs in 42 states representing 8,260 members. The purpose of the group is to broaden the understanding of those aspects of child rearing and development that relate especially to multiple birth children.

This is done by an interchange of ideas between parents, doctors, educators, and researchers with like experience and similar interests.

From the local area, the following mothers attended: Carol Molyneux of Belmont, president of the Coastside Mothers of Twins; Anna Scribner of Pacifica;

Joanne Kay of San Bruno, Dorothy Bolton of Pacifica, Louise Manry of Half Moon Bay, and Kathy Townsley of San Bruno, all members of the Coastside Mothers of Twins Club.

Business meetings, workshops on various aspects of twin development and multiple births, luncheons, award banquets, and trips to Old Tucson, the Desert Museum, the Colossal Cave, and Nogales, Mexico were among the events that took place.

The 1977 annual convention will be held in Seattle, Wash. The convention site selected for 1978 is New Orleans, La. Mrs. Gary Babigian of Massachusetts was elected national president for 1976-77.

Any mother of twins who would like information on the Coastside Mothers of Twins Club should contact Kitty Bester, P.O. Box 754, Pacifica.

Making Gravy

Poultry drippings — the basic ingredient used in poultry gravy — frequently contain both fat and broth. The proportions of fat and broth in drippings depend to a large extent on the cooking method.

Board Approves Hikers' Hut

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors approved a lease agreement this week to allow the Sierra Club to place a hiker's hut in Sam McDonald Park, but only after being assured that stringent regulations will be enforced at the facility.

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald said that people had expressed concerns to him that the hut might attract an undesirable element and that there would be a lack of supervision.

"The rules might be great, but with no enforcement it might give us a headache," he stated.

County Parks and Recreation Director John T. Brook Jr. said that there will be a residential caretaker to enforce the rules and that the Parks and Recreation Department will monitor the operation.

Sally Anderson of Pacifica, appearing on behalf of Active Women Advancing Responsible Environment (AWARE), expressed concern that the proposed rules and regulations for the hut have not been made public. She also read a letter in which noted that the original listing of the proposed lease described the facility as a youth hostel and not a trail hut, and a public hearing was held on that basis concerning an environmental impact report.

Brook said that the "proper definition" of the facility is a hut because it will accommodate a maximum of only 14 persons. A hostel, he stated, accommodates a minimum of 50 persons.

Brook reported that stays at the hut will be limited to one night, and that persons intending to use the facility must have advance reservations. Because of the water shortage, he added, no water from the existing system in the park will be used. All water required prior to start of the operation will be transported to the site.

Brooks said that the Sierra Club intends to install a water system which will double the present storage capacity in the park and will upgrade emergency water needs if required for fire-fighting purposes.

The Sierra Club will lease the site at a cost of $1 a year.

In approving the lease, the board directed that the proposed rules and regulations be reviewed by the Park and Recreation Commission and submitted to the board for final review and approval.

Saboteurs Hit Cable TV Antenna

Daly City customers of the Vista Grande Cable Vision lost use of their TV sets late Wednesday night after saboteurs climbed the company's antenna on top of San Bruno Mountain, cut wires and cables and removed the main amplifier; the sheriff's office reported this morning.

The company's chief engineer, Tim Connard, 25, told Sheriff's Deputy Larry Boss that he began receiving complaints at his home about 10:45 p.m. that customers were losing their images from their screens.

He said that when a workman went to the company's antenna Thursday morning he discovered the damage.

Damage and loss was estimated at $5,000.

Reduction of HRC Membership Endorsed

The recent action of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors to reduce the membership of the County Human Relations Commission from 15 to nine received the endorsement of the commission itself Thursday night.

The six members present unanimously adopted a motion by Commissioner John J. Norton at a meeting in Redwood City that the commission support the supervisors' action.

Commissioner F. Allan Weinstein brought up the matter, stating the commission "can or cannot take a position."

Norton said he thought the commission had already agreed to the reduction.

Commission Executive Director James Forrest predicted that the board's action will be the first in a series of reductions in the size of various commissions and boards with large memberships.

Weinstein observed that the San Francisco Human Relations Commission has a membership of 16 and that members are paid $25 a meeting.

"There is a difference in philosophy," he commented.

Commission Chairwoman Mildred Swann said she had no argument with nine members "if we can accomplish results."

"It's quality, not quantity," she stated.

Commissioner Mary Katherine DeLong said she believed the number of members to be immaterial if they will take responsibility.

"If they do, we will do a rip-roaring job," she stated.

The Board of Supervisors voted introduction of an ordinance earlier this month to reduce the commission membership. The board took the opportunity for the action after the commission membership had fallen to nine through resignations and the board failing to appoint replacements.

In a report earlier this year the 1975-76 County Grand Jury recommended that the commission membership be reduced to not more than nine members, asserting that a 15-member commission appears to be too large, allowing for the creation of cliques that are counter-productive to effective human relations, and also slowing down the decision-making process.

Coastside Pair Exchanges Vows

Pacifica is the first address for Steven Gerard Blasquez and his bride, the former Karen Kristi Ross, who were married earlier this month at the Pacifica home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Santos Blasquez.

The Rev. Donald W. Hinds of Fairway Park, a longtime friend, administered the marriage vows before members of both immediate families. A reception followed at the same site.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ross Sr. of Pacifica, said her promises in an aqua blue polyester crepe gown with an Empire waist, spaghetti straps and a poncho style overblouse. The costume was accented with aqua lace.

Sole attendant for the bride was Diane Revai who wore a gown with an aqua skirt and a multi-colored pastel top.

Thomas Poda served as the best man.

The newlyweds, who are Oceana High School graduates, honeymooned in Northern California and Oregon.

The bride who studied at the College of San Mateo. Her husband completed his education at Heald's College of Engineering. His affiliations include the Pacifica Civil Defense, Moose Lodge of San Francisco and the 4-Wheel Drive Club for which he serves as an associate member.

Kristi, as the bride is known, is the sister of Steve, Jeff and Gerry Ross Jr. The bridegroom has two brothers, Toby Blasquez of Pacifica and Ric Blasquez, who traveled from his home in Albany, Ore., with his wife, Gale, for the wedding.

Also present were Steve's grandparents, Mrs. Pura Blasquez and Mr. and Mrs. Art Fenton, and his aunts and uncles, Cres and Evelyn Blasquez and Sal and Stephalie Franco.

Hawaiian Honeymoon

The Hawaiian Islands were the honeymoon destination of Robert Laurence Bulawksy and his bride, the former Sally Ann Pipia, who were married at St. Monica's Church in San Francisco. They are living in San Bruno.

The couple exchanged vows before the Rev. Louie Masero during afternoon rites which were followed by a reception at Bimbo's 365 Club.

Sally, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore a white embroidered chiffon gown with Alencon lace and pearl detailing.

An apricot chiffon gown and matching lace brimmed hat was chosen by Lisa Ann Pipia, the maid of honor for her sister. Similar gowns in lavender, sky blue, pink, yellow and pistachio were worn respectively by bridesmaids Marci Ann Pipia, another sister of the bride; Barbara Bulawsky, sister of the bridegroom; Ginger Coghlan, Diane Lanan and Mary Otto.

Tiffany Papazian, the flower girl, wore a white frock.

Robert asked his brother, John Bulawsky, to serve as best man. Both are the sons of Mrs. John Bulawsky of Daly City. Guests were seated by Tony Moitoza, Frank Pitre, Greg Berg, Terry Bouey and Randy DeRosa.

The bride was graduated from Mills High School

Losberger-Lowry

Friends and relatives of Linda Losberger and Robert Lowry Jr. gathered recently to witness the couple's marriage at St. Paul's Catholic Church in San Pablo.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Losberger of San Pablo who hosted a reception after the ceremony at Rollingwood Recreation Center. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bergland of Colma are her grandparents.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lowry Sr. of Richmond and the grandson of Ralph Siler of Los Gatos. He and his bride honeymooned in Carmel and San Simeon and are making their first home in El Sobrante.

For her wedding Linda wore an Empire white chiffon gown re-embroidered with Alencon lace and pearls. It was styled with a Juliet neckline, long fitted sleeves and a cathedral train. The bride completed her silhouette with a caplet of Alencon lace with silk illusion veiling.

Imported pale blue dotted swiss gowns detailed with Cluny lace were chosen by the attendants. Debbie Losberger was her sister's maid of honor and Michele Lowry, the bridegroom's sister served as a bridesmaid with Sharon Hill and Barbara Richardson. Tammy Martinez was the flower girl.

Robert Lencioni stood with the bridegroom as best man, and guests were seated by Steve Tenbrink, Danny Domingo, Jim Garland and Jim Losberger Jr., the bride's brother.

Danny Leece Jr. carried the rings.

A dental assistant in Richmond, the new Mrs. Lowry was graduated from Richmond High School. She is the niece of Rod Losberger of Belmont, who coaches baseball and football at Westmoor High School.

Wedding Slated

Mr. and Mrs. William Wimmer of Pacifica are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Cheryl Lynn, to Steven Charles Broadway, son of Mrs. Maureen Broadway of San Bruno.

The couple plans to be married a year from now.

The prospective bride is the sister of Tom and Robert Wimmer and the granddaughter of Lucille Love and Catherine Gore. A resident of San Mateo, she is a graduate of Terra Nova High School.

Steven, who lives in San Mateo, is the brother of Madelyn, Cynthia and Glen Broadway and the grandson of Madeline Prosser and James Prosser. He studied at Oceana High School and the College of San Mateo.

ANOTHER WINNER FOR VINCE'S

This year's San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta's Grand Champion Steer, weighing 1242 pounds and raised by Mark Ashcraft, went to Tony Licata and the Licata clan, owners of Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant in San Mateo. The winning bid was $3.60 per pound, or, as Tony laughingly states, "Nearly $2 a bite". The prize beef will be available for Vince's customers sometime next week. The Licatas also purchased the 111 pound Reserve Grand Champion lamb, paying $4 per pound.

Daly City Summer Program Ends

The summer playground program sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department drew to a close Aug. 20.

All playgrounds will be closed until the start of the fall program in September, the opening date is to be announced.

At Colma, ping pong is hot! Daily competition is bringing out the best play in everyone. Ronald Bradford, Earl Woods and Ronnie Williams have all been consistent in fighting it out for the weekly champion; all have been champs.

The team of Steve Phifer and Danny Huertas have been tough as nails in strike out and remain unbeaten.

New games on the playground include frisbee golf in which Gregory Bradford won Colma's first frisbee golf tourney.

Although the summer program is nearing its grand finale, activities are still going full force at the playground. The team started off the week with a series of two and two football games, with the coach seeing action as "all time quarterback" for both teams.

Stars were Eddie Hermasillo, Sean Williams, Ricky Gibson, Dennis and Jerry Criss. Most valuable player had to go to Ray Sykes, whose 11 TD receptions this week earned him the title.

The idea was to give youngsters opportunities to develop pass reception and coverage techniques. All participants are to be congratulated on their fine play and sportsmanship.

Ricky Gibson gets "hot head" of the week for some of his antics. Arts and crafts went well, and a special thanks goes to all who have participated.

Tuesday's trip was another succcess as we all treaked off to Lake Anza. Ray Sykes, Ricky Gibson, Elke Washington, Vince Isom, Sammy Hernandez all had a great time.

Special thanks goes to Gary Clark who helped supervise the younger kids. The dog show wasn't all that successful, but fiesty Jeffrey Paul didn't think so. As the only contestant, he braved terrible odds.

Several special events highlighted "Wings and Things" week at O.L.M. A checkers tournament was held on Monday.

Placing in first place was Glenn Ibarrientos and in second place was Anne-Marie Henry. Other participants included Jim Riccomi and Gerry Manis.

Chess tournament participants included Gerald McFadden, Chad Erikson, Mike Eckerman, Tim Hanagan, John Nagy, Gerry Manis, and Glenn Ibarrientos. Placing first was Glenn Ibarrientos, second place was John Nagy, and third was Gerry Manis.

A arts and crafts session was held and participants made several different types of paper airplanes. Some of the designs were quite difficult and were really a challenge. The paper airplanes were made into mobiles.

O.L.M. playground participants also started working hard to put their ideas together for their banner and costumes to help celebrate the End of Summer Fun Day "Festival of Cultures — American Style."

Singles Tennis Tourney To Span Three Weekends

The Pacifica Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department will be offering the 9th Annual Singles Tennis Tournament to all tennis enthusiasts the weekend of Sept. 18-19 and 25-26 and Oct. 2-3, dependent upon sign-ups, at Terra Nova High.

Last year's tournament attracted 92 players and this year promises to be even bigger.

This year's tournament will be open to Pacifica residents only and features seven special divisions which hopefully will attract the very young tennis players, weekend backers and experienced players in the city.

Entry forms are available at the department offices at City Hall and there will be flyer packets available at both court locations at Oceana and Terra Nova High Schools.

The 1976 Mixed Doubles Tennis Tournament was played under threatening skies but last year's champs, Pam Ascaris and Jeff Morganti successfully defended their title and emerged the Class "C" winners.

In the final set, the match went to 6-all against Eileen Walsh and Bill Hastings who at one time were down 1-5 in the set.

However, some excellent tennis play by both Eileen and Bill brought them to the deciding nine-point tie-breaker.

In this last chance, Pam and Jeff proved to be "too much" and they ended the tie-breaker at 5-2 in favor of the Ascariz-Morganti team.

Both teams arrived at the finals by collecting the two best point totals against seven opponents in a round robin tournament format.

The Class "D" champions were Lonna Beccaria and Ken Bates. These two competitors were also successful in their round robin flight. In the finals, they defeated the team of Donna Rancatore and Jeff Franco by a score of 7-6.

Summer Programs Take a Breather

The Pacifica summer Community Center program conducted by the Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department closed for the summer Aug. 18th.

The Fall Community Cener program will resume at the following sites: Pacific Manor, Pedro Valley, Ortega and Westview on Sept. 27 at 3:30 p.m.

For further information concerning the fall program, please call the Recreation Department.

The Open Gym Basketball Program will be closed for the month of August at Oceana and will resume Sept. 20.

The adult volleyball program closed for the summer Aug. 16 and will resume on Sept. 21.

Qualifications for the positinos are: completion of high school; minimum age of 18, with either paid or volunteer experience in recreation or sports leadership; possession of American Red Cross standard first aid certification and cardiopulmurory resuscitation.

Positions will begin late in September on a Monday through Thursday from 3:30-5:30 p.m. and Saturdays from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Applications are available at the P.B.&R. office in City Hall, 170 Santa Maria.

After school sports leader hours are 3-6 p.m. Monday through Thursday only.

Fellows Edge Out Niners

There was plenty of action this week in the High School Softball League sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department.

The Fellows edged the Niners 5-4 in a well-played game. Chuckie Reed's fine base running scored the winning run. Arthur Diaz, Jose Ruiz also turned in a fine performance.

The Skyline Minorities defeated the Sheets 7-3 as the hitting power came from Eddie Pennes and Steve Sottler, and fine defensive plays came from Charlie Pennes.

BENICIA — North Peninsula was eliminated from the State Joe DiMaggio League all-star baseball tournament with a 6-4 loss to South Peninsula here Friday night.

Westlake Senior Citizens group, sponsored by the Daly City Parks and Recreation department, wants it known that it might not be getting ready for a cruise to Hawaii (as the members of the Fifty Plus Club in Pacifica are) but they do its fair share of traveling!

Today, the Westlake group is traveling down the Peninsula for a luncheon at which their recent Caribbean cruise will be a chief topic of conversation! And, according to the keepers of the club calendar, that isn't all the traveling the seniors in Daly City have done — or will do. Next jaunt on the agenda is an October trip to Disneyland planned at roughly the same as the Fifty-Plus Club Hawaiian cruise. While the Pacifica contingent is heading over the waves, the Daly City seniors will be motoring over the hills. One thing about our seniors' groups: they don't encourage their members to spend their "golden years" rocking in a lonely corner of the room.

WITH THE OLDER members of the community accounted for, let's consider the plight of many of our younger citizens who are having difficulty finding employment.

This Saturday, the San Mateo County Red Cross will sponsor a workshop aimed at helping young persons develop skills and attitudes needed for successful job seeking. The session, being taught by Linda Kurtz of the Adult Competency Education Project, will begin at 9 a.m. in the Red Cross Service Center in South San Francisco.

For additional information call or drop by the service center at 803½ Linden Ave.

KATHI INA of the Serramonte Shopping Center staff is accepting reservations for community bazaar booths from local organizations interested in taking part in the center's annual benefit.

Each year Serramonte Shopping center makes booths available to non-profit organizations for the purpose of fund raising, membership recruitment or the distribution of information. Booths are assigned to organizations on first come, first served basis. The center makes available cash awards for the groups which do the best job of decorating their booths and telling their story to the shoppers in the center.

Requests for booth space, accompanied by the name of your organization and its purposes, should be mailed to Kathi Ina, 3 Serramonte Center, Daly City, 94015.

BEING A NON-PROFIT organization is one thing, but going in the red is quite another. Emily Powell Sumrall, new president of the Balboa Alumni Association, is looking for Peninsula alumni who might be willing to help the alumni keep out of the red and help themselves at the same time.

The alumni finds its greatest expense is the publication of its newsletter, The Gangplank, and to help keep up with the cost of publication the association has elected to include an advertiser's section.

According to the editor, Joan Anderson Christensen, the rates are low and the circulation is constant at 4,000 persons. If you are in business and interested in helping the alumni continue publishing its newsletter contact Mrs. Anderson.

Last week Ron Wells and the Daly City Recreation Department introduced The Wizard of Oz to the lecture hall at Serramonte High School. One of the weakest plays in the Wizard of Daly City's summer series was the result.

This was due more to the shortcomings of the lecture hall than to the acting of the cast. Because of the acoustics of the place, Terri Streeter's solos did not reach beyond the third row; and because of the lack of curtains, the audience had to witness sight of stage settings being wheeled in on roller skates.

Truly a sad condition besets the fair town of Daly City. In all the city there is not a stage equal to the talents of the music and drama teachers and the thespians that live there. Indeed there is no place in all of Northern San Mateo County for a play, a concert, an opera, or even a dance recital.

Leanne Tintori was one of the prettiest wicked witches to curse the West. Yet every time she appeared she stole the scene. As the Scarecrow, Evan Pappas was delightful. As the Cowardly Lion as the Tin Man. David Canfield and Clive Reece turned in the kind of performances that the theatre goers of Daly City have come to expect of them.

AS DOROTHY, TERRI STREETER led the audience to believe that she really came from Kansas. At 12 years old, she looked and danced like the Dorothy that is described by the author of the Oz books.

Dorothy is a hard part to cast. Usually accomplished singers and dancers are too old to seem like a little girl from Kansas, while younger girls have not had the training and the experience necessary to handle such a large role.

A word must be said for the stage sets and the lighting. Together they made up for some of the shortcomings that are offered by the lecture hall. For so young a man Jim Wells has reaped honor and glory for his many stage designs while Terry Franklin has seen what miracles good lighting can create.

As a companion to the "Wizard of Oz", Ron Wells and company are presenting "Anything Goes" which sparkles with Cole Porter's lyrics and music. It disguises a public enemy as a clergyman and throws in a playboy and an evangelist turned nightclub entertainer. Reviewers called it "one of Porter's sprightliest shows."

The Daly City production features Terri Harrington, Marc Anthony, Sam Martinez, Kathy Marvis, Shari Samuel and others who have had years of training in high school and college. They are representatives of a wholesome group of youngsters that have found pleasure in portraying life and characters with dialogue and music.

"Everything Goes" and "Wizard of Oz" will be presented on the remaining Fridays and Saturdays of August. Let us hope that everyone goes to see them. The kids deserve a good audience — besides, the plays are fun to watch.

New Officers

Class Lists 90 Out This Week

Westmoor High School class schedules for the 1976-77 school year will be mailed to 10th, 11th, and 12th grade students' homes this week according to Pablo Perez, Assistant Principal-Guidance for Westmoor High School.

Students who need to change their programs because they desire to enroll in the Work Experience Program, because of classes taken in Summer School, because of scheduling errors, or with any questions regarding their class schedule, should telephone Westmoor High School to make an appointment with their respective counselor.

The counselors will be available.

All students new to Westmoor are also invited to attend the school's Annual Orientation Assembly in the Boy's Gym, Sept. 2 at 8:30 a.m.

Student body officers, who are in charge of the program, will explain the co-curricular school program and conduct guided tours of the school.

Book Sale Scheduled

A Big Bicentennial Booksale of used and gift books from the Pacific and Sanchez libraries and the other 12 branches of the San Mateo County Library will go on sale at the Hillsdale Shopping Center, Aug. 26 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The books represent a cross-section of the wide variety of subjects generally circulated by the library.

All will be available for 25 cents with the exceptino of some special items which will be sold at silent auction. Those with a card from any public library in San Mateo County will receive a surprise bargain package.

Low Cost Sweetens This One

Apples Make a Dessert Bargain

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

The produce departments of the markets are heaped with beautiful apples at a moderate cost. An irresistable set of circumstances you will agree. So now let us consider a good way to make use of this bargain.

This dessert combines apples and spices which as they bake, will fill your kitchen with a lovely spicy fragrance. The result of your mixing and fixing and baking will be a tasty and unusual apple dumpling.

APPLE DUMPLINGS

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 Tablespoons butter or margarine
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 Tablespoons brown sugar
3 tart apples, chopped

Sift together the two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt. Cut the two tablespoons butter into the sifted ingredients. Add the three-fourths cup milk and blend into dough. Place on a floured board and roll into a rectangle about 10x12-inches and about ½-inch thick. Melt two tablespoons butter and brush over top of dough. Sprinkle with the combined one teaspoon cinnamon and two tablespoons brown sugar.

Pare the three apples and chop very finely and spread over the dough. Roll up the dough, as you would a jelly roll and cut into 12 equal slices. Place the slices, cut side down, in a buttered pan 9x13-inches. Pour sauce over dumplings and bake in 400-degree oven about 30 minutes or until nicely browned.

DUMPLING SAUCE

1 cup sugar
1 Tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 Tablespoon butter
½ lemon, sliced
1 cup hot water

Mix the one cup sugar with the one tablespoon flour and one-half teaspoon salt. Add the one tablespoon butter, one-half lemon, sliced very thinly and the one cup hot water. Stir until well mixed. Cook three minutes and pour over unbaked dumplings.

These dumplings are delicious for dinner, served just as they are, or topped with a bit of whipped cream. And if there are any left-over, they are a tasty breakfast roll. How's that for a double duty dessert?

Officer Halts Roadside Battle

A roadside fight between two men over tailgateing — one of whom was trying to settle it with a gun — was broken up Saturday morning when a Brisbane policeman happened by.

According to police, a 19-year-old Daly City man, Raymond Harrington, was rescued from a fight with the gun-wielding Preston Finney, 31, of San Jose.

Police said the incident happened like this:

Harrington and his wife, who had been visiting relatives in Brisbane, were going home on Visitacion Avenue and became annoyed because Finney was following them too closely.

At the intersection of Visitacion Avenue and Old County Road, Harrington got out of his car and walked toward Finney to ask him why he had been tailgateing.

Finney, who works for a food processing company in Brisbane, pulled a gun out of his glove compartment and pushed Harrington to the side of the road.

It was then that Officer Tim Guiney drove up and saw the two men fighting. Upon his order, Finney dropped the gun. Finney was taken into custody and charged with assault and battery and brandishing a firearm.

Women Invited to Join North Peninsula Jaycees

The North Peninsula Jaycees have become the third local chapter in the San Mateo County District to allow females to join the service club as full participating members.

The North County local joins Burlingame and Foster City in allowing women to vote and hold office and participate in club activities.

Dave Johnson, president of the North Peninsula Jaycees, announced Wednesday that his local is seeking female members between the ages of 21 and 35.

"We have 28 members now," said Johnson, "and we expect to grow very rapidly now."

Although the National Jaycees still refuses to recognize female members, many locals are installing them anyway, in an effort to eventually force the national to change its rules.

Johnson reported that many locals in California and other states are now enrolling females.

BART Involved in Four Transit Alternatives for Peninsula

Seven alternative plans, four of them utilizing some form of BART, to provide for the long-term mass transportation needs between San Francisco and San Jose were submitted to the Metropolitan Transportation Commission's Peninsula Transit Alternatives Project Committee (PENTAP) Friday in Redwood City.

The PENTAP Citizens Advisory Committee submitted a resolution at the meeting calling for a deletion of the alternatives which would involve BART, and proposing the addition of an alternative which would result in the upgrading of the Southern Pacific commute service.

The PENTAP Committee continued action on the matter to a special meeting Sept. 3 at 9 a.m. in the County Office Building at Redwood City.

Wallace dela Barre, project manager for Daniel, Mann, Johnson & Mendenhall (DMJM), the engineering firm which prepared the seven alternatives, reducing them from a total of 25 originally proposed for study, said it is believed the final seven present a range satisfying a majority of criteria elements for a Westbay corridor transit system.

The alternatives range from a minimal system of present rail and bus service augmented by a managed transportation system, such as some improvement in SP facilities and designated bus lanes on Junipero Serra and Bayshore freeways, to a full extension of BART service from Daly City to San Jose, with an Eastbay connection from San Jose to Fremont.

Relative capital costs range from $10 million for the minimal project to $1.1 million for the extension of BART to San Jose.

Barre said, however, that the cost estimates consist of updating of existing studies and are listed to compare the order of magnitude of the various alternatives. Actual costs probably would range considerably higher, he indicated.

The alternatives proposed for in-depth consideration by PENTAB:

- Present rail and bus service, augmented by transportation system management, $10 million.
- A bus dependent system, emphasizing bus trunk lines along Junipero Serra and Bayshore freeways to the Transbay Terminal in San Francisco, with feeder lines to local areas, $55 million.
- An upgraded commuter rail system, with off-peak and commuter bus service to the Transbay Terminal, $170 million.
- An upgraded commuter rail system, with BART service to San Francisco International Airport from Daly City, $560 million.
- BART to Millbrae, with a bus rapid transit system from San Jose to the Transbay Terminal, $503 million.
- Extension of BART to South San Mateo County (Menlo Park or Redwood City), with a light rail system to San Jose, $1.02 billion.
- Extension of BART from Daly City to San Jose, $1.1 billion.

Charles Bigelow of Menlo Park, an urban-suburban economical analyst, said he was concerned that PENTAB doesn't have the necessary data, including demand for service, anticipated revenues and energy sources, to make a choice from among the alternatives.

PENTAB Committee Member Geraldine Steinberg, a member of the Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors, said she believed it would be a "waste of resources" to study the alternative calling for a full BART extension to San Jose.

She said that a majority of the board does not want a BART extension into Santa Clara County, noting that there is a question of use since 95 per cent of public trips by county residents are within the county.

PENTAB Chairman John Beckett noted that when the MTC submits a recommendation on a transit plan to the State Legislature in January the legislators will want to know if the recommended plan had been compared to BART.

PENTAB Committee Member James Self, a member of the San Jose City Council, said he considers the BART proposal part of a regional study and not one solely affecting Santa Clara County.

Amendments on Ballot

Five proposed amendments to the San Mateo County Charter which would help streamline the county's governmental operations were officially placed on the ballot for the Nov. 2 general election Tuesday by the Board of Supervisors.

Board Chairman William H. Royer emphasized that the board is not attempting to be devious in endorsing one of the proposed amendments which would permit the supervisors to separate consolidated county offices and departments.

Royer referred specifically to the possibility of dividing the civil and criminal functions of the District Attorney's Office, noting that a speeific proposal to split the office and create a separate office of county counsel was turned down by the voters (in 1972).

"Our ability to separate the District Attorney's office didn't come through (in the ballot wording) as loud and clear as I would like," Royer said. "We're not trying to be devious."

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald expressed concern that the proposal to give the board the authority to separate functions in county offices puts the board in the position of "going a different direction" when the Citizens Task Force on County Governmental Operations and County Manager M. D. Tarshes have been proposing consolidation.

Tarshes said that the recommendation to place the matter on the ballot stemmed from the desire to make some changes in the Department of Health and Welfare, transferring some of that department's functions elsewhere.

The amendment, he said, is designed to give the board flexibility in meeting "rapid changes in conditions."

It does not commit the board to make any changes, Tarshes noted.

The other proposed charter amendments would:

- Permit the county to hire persons under special programs in either the classified or unclassified service.
- Provides that the county manager shall appoint all department heads except elected officials, subject to confirmation by the Board of Supervisors.
- Give the board flexibility regarding the compensation of management and mid-management personnel on the basis of performance and rating.
- Eliminate the requirement that candidates for the position of county manager must take a written examination and the selection made from among the top three on a list submitted through the Civil Service Commission.

Richard Silver, administrative assistant to Assemblyman Louis Papan, appeared before the board to request that a proposed charter amendment to provide for election of members of the Board of Supervisors by district, rather than at large, be placed before the electorate next March.

Silver, who said he was speaking for himself and not as a representative of Papan, noted that the proposal has been discussed by boards of supervisors for many years, but never put to a vote.

"It's time once and for all that it be properly discussed and properly decided," Silver stated.

Royer noted that the board discussed the matter recently in conjunction with other proposed charter amendments and that there were only two votes (Supervisors John M. Ward and Edward J. Bacciocco Jr.) in favor of putting the matter to a public vote. Even Ward, while favoring putting the matter before the electorate, said he would not support the amendment.

Fitzgerald said that the proposal probably will be discussed by the board subcommittee when it reviews possible charter amendments for submission to voters next March.

Bacciocco, who supports supervisoral election by district, disclaimed having Silver appear to make his suggestion.

"Rick's not a stalking horse for me," the supervisor stated.

In Millbrae

Wine Festival Set

Wines from France and Portugal, in addition to domestic wines, will be offered at the sixth annual Millbrae Art and Wine Festival in downtown Millbrae from 11 a.m. to dusk Labor Day weekend, Sept. 4 and 5.

Also featured at the festival will be wine carafes in a bicentennial edition carrying the Millbrae slogan and seal. They have been added this year to the wine glass and beer stein produced on a limited edition basis by the Millbrae Chamber of Commerce as collector items.

Booths at the festival will present domestic wines from the Napa Valley and other California wine-producing regions.

Available at the festival will be foods and cheeses to accompany the wines.

For the first time, the festival will feature beer and wine gardens decorated by the Green Garden and Peters and Wilson Nurseries of Millbrae.
